

Introduction to the Finding Aid for the John Cowles Papers Cowles Library, Drake University

The John Cowles collection includes 16 filing cabinets of papers and other memorabilia and framed documents and photographs. The material was organized and cataloged in such a way as to preserve as much as possible the original placement of papers in Cowles' files. If the placement of an item seems strange to the researcher, it is probably where it is because John Cowles caused it to be there. The following general areas are listed in the order of their filing in the file cabinets:

Speeches – These files include speeches made by J.C., correspondence relating to the speeches and material which he kept for reference when writing speeches, organized by date where relevant.

Family – These files include correspondence with family members, family business matters, art, insurance, philanthropy, estate business of both J.C. and Elizabeth Bates Cowles and other family members, foundation matters, investments and trusts.

Special Areas – Papers relating to Phillips Exeter Academy, the Ford Foundation, General Mills, Harvard University, the Des Moines Register, Look magazine and Cowles Communication, Inc.

Public Life – These papers are organized chronologically, with the years up to 1955 being mostly a year by year set of files. After 1955, the files are alphabetical by subject with a range of dates given for each file. This organization is the way the material was originally found.

Artifacts – This category includes material which either did not arrive at the library in a file folder or did not lend itself to storage in a file folder. Included are rolled documents, academic hoods, scrapbooks, photographs and published materials.

The finding aid lists the general area, followed by the file folder caption, followed by the number of the filing cabinet and the number of the drawer.

One comment for the researcher: John Cowles was an amazing correspondent; his letters to friends and family are filled with references to the important topics of the day including business matters, economics, politics, domestic and foreign affairs. These letters are an invaluable source to his ideas and opinions.
